

Long time resident, Lee Liebman, remembered

In the early 1960s British-born Lee Liebman was the social director at the Chateau Resort. It was her job to help plan programs like fashion shows and to handle guest relations. She likes to say that it was her job “to guarantee the guests a bang of a good time.”

Lee Liebman, social director at the Chateau in the early 1960s, guaranteed guests a “bang of a good time.”

With her radiant smile and friendly demeanor Liebman was considered the Pied Piper of these resorts bringing her fellow Englishmen to this tropical paradise. She was responsible for keeping the “Pamper Quotient” high.

In recent years, Lee became an active participant in City business. She was ready with advice any time it was needed though never intrusive. Recently, a park bench was dedicated in her honor commemorating all Lee’s contributions to the tourist industry in our City. Seeing her at the 4th of July ceremony this year one would not have believed she was in her 90s.

We will miss her friendly face and her never failing positive attitude. She was the true “customer first” person and was enjoyed by all that knew her. The City has lost a wonderful person and advocate for our City.
